We never had such a corking big showing of Fancy Suits as you'll find here now. Not only that, but they're of finer quality than you ever bought for the money—the best tailored, best fitting suits you ever slipped into. Five minutes here will prove all this.

Men ask: How can you hand out such splendid suits at such prices? Answer: Co-operation. We save at every step, from buying goods to making them up. Big savings, of course, and that's why our values are so superior.

Fancy suits in browns, grays, blues and tans-piles of them in twenty different stripe effects-pencil stripes in wide and narrow spacings, on blues and browns-every kind of a fancy suit any man could possibly want and big value at $10, $15, $20, $25, $30 and $35.

POLI'S

At Poli's theatre next week it going to be a case of "hold on to your seats, he is going to sing the second verse" for honest and truly John El. Ince is going to sing "I'm a Popular Millionaire" in the George M. Cohan musical comedy "Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway" which will be the big attraction next week and which will be given a splendid presentation by the Poli players assisted by a special chorus rehearsed by George Cohan himself. The introduction of musical comedy during a stock season is an innovation and Manager Poli determined to get the best when he started every one knows that the Cohan comedies have been the most successful of any for several seasons past. But to get back to vocal end of it John Ince has proven his ver-satility as a dramatic leading man for several seasons and this is his first that had kept me from flying out of lyer into musical comedy. Did John falter when his part was handed to him accompanied by a sheet of music. a lot of my nerve. But that 155 miles per hour brought me around and I now believe that the limit of speed is the point where it is no longer possible to see. I have never been affected in this way before because I have always made it a point to train faithfully for events of great consequence and when after taking perfect care of myself for several weeks I at Daytona, you can imagine how I treal.

Old 'Blitzen' left the beach for distances of sixty feet at a stretch and it is wonderful how I ever reached the end of that young death-ride without smashing the car, and myself. Every moment in this ride seemed to me the last on earth, and I was glad when it was over.

"As I looked down the hood of the car and saw the two-mile post barely visible in the haze, I had premonitions of never reaching it, but I was going so fast that by the time I had thought this over I was almost down upon it and in a few seconds more carried me by Fred J. Wagner, the official representatives of the three A's. and E. A. Moross, owner of the big car, awaited the finish of the wild ride. During the grand prize race at Savannah I beat it through the half good spots until I could barely hold the car on the road, but none of those experiences will ever stay with me as long as that nerve-shredding two-mile ride over Daytona beach in 51.28 seconds.

"One mountainous bump which I negotiated threw me clean out of the seat and my foot slipped off the throttle instantly, but I was back on again quicker than I could realize what I had done, and old 'Blitzen' and I were chasing up the beach again after that that steering wheel was the only thing

Run At Profit By Government

Canada's Own Railroad Comes Out With Surplus of $272,-712 For Year

WHAT THE LINE HAS DONE

Rapid Transition From a Losing to Paying Basis Causes Joy to Nation.

Canada's entirely Dominion-owned railway, the Intercolonial, having this year an assured surplus of $272,712, has established the fact that this line can be run successfully under government ownership and control. As early as 1866 this possibility was scouted by writers of Canadian af-fairs, and it has been doubted more or less ever since by many Canadians, especially the parliamentary opposition of each regime. This latter set of doubters always held out the hope, however, that when "their party came into power" that constant deficit of the Intercolonial would certainly be reversed and the balance be set on the right side of the accounts. But this remained an unfulfilled hope until two years ago. Last year a surplus was reported, but it was so grudgingly accepted by the opposition that the country "had its doubts" as to the actuality of the accomplish-ceded, as the surplus is too considerable to be vanquished by appeals to different types of bookkeeping.
